Chapter 1 by Magdalene

"Access denied." The mechanical voice said from the computer.

"Shut up." She replied and entered the password she had learned herself.

The password worked and immediately logged in. She continued to click through useless information and waited a few minutes until the important information she really needed was downloaded onto her USB. She flipped some data around, hoping to confuse the Capo. Her mic in her ear buzzed. "The governor is coming." A male voice whispered.

She didn't reply. She jerked out the USB and hurried out to the balcony. She jumped over, shimmied her way down to the ground, and then sank into the shadows, whispering into the mic.

"I got the info, Boss."
